The Dish: Kim Hoa Hue brings Central Vietnamese dishes to the SGV

by Fiona Ng | Take Two August 19 2016

The go-to place for authentic Vietnamese food in or more specifically -- the city of El Monte. That's thanks to a large South Vietnamese population that's taken up residence there since the Vietnam war.

Southern California has long been the Orange County city of Westminster - also known as "Little Saigon." But for those who want to stay a bit closer to

Los Angeles, the San Gabriel Valley is where it's at -

For the latest installment of our seasonal food series, Summer

Dish, Vietnamese-American food blogger Cathy Chaplin takes us to one of these gems -- Kim Hoa Hue restaurant, to sample something called the Hue Combo, consisting of foods from Central Vietnam.

The dish is a sampler of the best of what Hue cuisine has to offer, pork dumplings known as banh bot loc, and rice sheets with minced including steam rice cakes banh beo, and banh nam, shrimp and
